

Nation's Road Toll for Holiday Stands at 369

Three Killed in
Two-Car Crash
Near Eau Claire

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The number of deaths on the nation's highways mounted today as millions of Americans flocked to urban centers on Christmas shopping expeditions.

The death toll continued to lag far behind last year's pace that led to 748 deaths during the 102-hour Thanksgiving holiday, a record for any holiday period. The count began at 6 p.m. local time Wednesday and will end at midnight Sunday.

By 11 a.m. today 369 persons had died on streets and highways.

The Friday and Saturday after Thanksgiving are traditionally the opening days of the Christmas shopping season. An estimated one million persons jammed the stores of Chicago's downtown section Friday. Many of them drove into the city from outlying areas.

Wet Highways

Damp, wintry weather made driving hazardous in wide areas of the country. Rain slicked highways through the Atlantic and Pacific states. There was rain or snow in the north-central region, the Ohio Valley and portions of the Mississippi Valley. Snow fell in the Rockies, the northern Plains and the Great Lakes area.

Wisconsin's 1967 highway death toll stood at 1,010 today, compared with five less on this date in record 1966. The extended holiday weekend toll was five.

Three members of a Trempealeau County family were killed and three more injured Friday when their car and another collided on State 93 10 miles south of Eau Claire. The driver of the other auto received minor injuries.

Car Hits Tree

Killed were Sherman L. Austin, 35, rural Eleva, his daughter, Cynthia, 10, and his son, Terry, 5. Austin's wife, another son and another daughter were hurt.

Mrs. Janet E. Loewenhagen, 32, rural Racine, was killed Friday when the car she was driving left a county road just north of Racine and struck a tree. Her four children received minor injuries.

Gilberto Rodriguez, 40, Milwaukee, died Friday of injuries suffered Thursday when he was thrown from his pickup truck when it crashed through a guard rail on State 50 in Lake Geneva.

Negroes Walk Out on Mayor Maier

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier says he was the victim of a planned walkout Friday afternoon.

About 20 Negro ministers joined the Rev. James Groppi and members of the Milwaukee Youth Council of the NAACP in walking out on the mayor during a meeting in an inner core church.

Maier's news secretary, Dick Budelmann, said he watched "Groppi give the signal to walk out." Father Groppi is a white Roman Catholic priest and advisor to the Youth Council.

The civil rights leaders charged that Maier evaded their questions on open housing.

"Kept Talking"

"I asked him about open housing, but he kept talking about his book. He criticized the suburbs, he talked about expressways—nothing about open housing," said Henry Walters, a leader of the Youth Council.

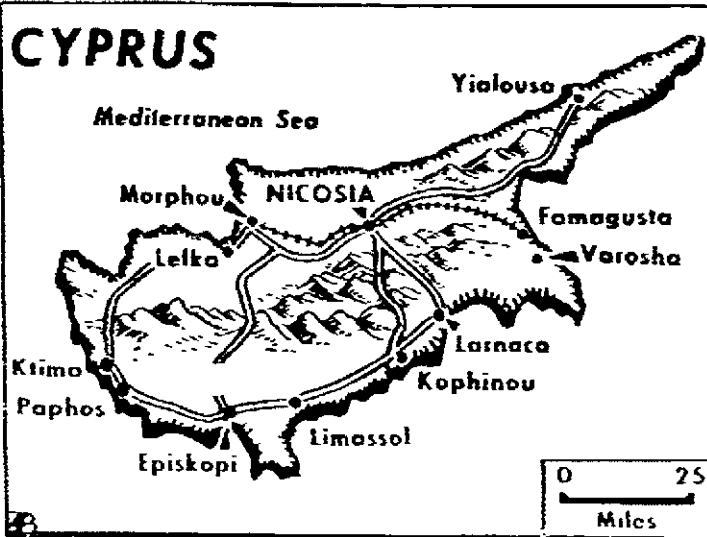

"The black people want to know about open housing. He evaded our questions," Walters said.

Asked if the walkout was pre-planned, Walters said, "If he talked, no."

A statement by the mayor said both sides were to present their cases at the meeting and would try to reach an understanding. "I was prepared to sit there for several hours in this effort," the mayor said.

Mortars End Lull at Dak To

SAIGON (AP) — Communist troops fired 25 to 30 mortar shells today at American positions in the Dak To sector, an effort to show that the government had been quiet for 24 hours after the bloody battle for the village. U.S. troops operating north of Saigon also had a brief encounter today with an unknown sized Communist force. A company with counterfire at suspected positions of the mortar crews, presumably detailed from five miles northwest of Saigon came North Vietnamese regiments under heavy small arms, automatic weapons and grenade attacks.

The show of Red opposition in the central highlands followed 19 separate mortar and flamethrower attacks on South Vietnamese military posts, provincial capitals and hamlets from an area north of Saigon of the fertile Mekong Delta in the south.

The government said its troops killed at least 110 of the raiders in one attack near Phuoc Binh, about 70 miles north of Saigon.

The Communist predawn attacks, most with mortars, left at least 34 persons dead—17 South Vietnamese soldiers and 17 civilians—and 140 wounded, including 92 military.

U.S. spokesmen said American troops turned the tables on a Viet Cong ambush of a truck convoy near Pleiku City and killed 38 guerrillas while suffering four dead and 12 wounded.

Fears of Turk Invasion Dimmed by U.S. Plan

Vance Heads For Ankara With Proposal

NICOSIA (AP) — American-made Turkish jets screamed over Cyprus again today, but fears of an imminent invasion lessened as peace makers worked on four fronts to head off a clash between the U.S.-equipped armies of Greece and Turkey.

U.S. presidential envoy Cyrus Vance carried to Ankara what a Greek foreign ministry source described as compromise proposals, and met for two hours with Turkish Foreign Minister Ihsan Sabri Caglayangil.

The plan Vance outlined reportedly called for withdrawal of Greek and Turkish troops from the island and guarantees for the safety of the Turkish Cypriot minority. The proposal seemed a substantial Greek concession in the face of a superior Turkish fighting force.

A Turkish spokesman said the council of ministers would discuss the plan before a meeting later in the day of the nation's war planning group, the National Security Council.

Sunday Attack

Cyprus' ambassador to the United Nations, Zenon Rossides, had charged earlier before the Security Council in New York that the Turks planned to attack by Sunday. This, he said, "is the knowledge of all governments."

The new overflights by Turkish RF-4H jets today came shortly after the council voted unanimously to ask both Greece and Turkey to pull back from "the brink of war" and refrain from acts likely to aggravate the situation.

Three bomb blasts, called the "work of Turkish saboteurs" by police, rocked Greek communities without causing damage or injury.

There were also these moves toward peace.

The Security Council threw its support behind an appeal from Secretary General U Thant for "greatest moderation" and his recommendation that Greece and Turkey eliminate a pact which permits Greek and Turkish troop contingents on the island.

Buying 'Panic' Continues

U.S. Gold Supply Should Last

LONDON (AP) — London gold dealers report buying orders are arriving in "near panic" proportions from all over the world in the challenge to the U.S. dollar touched off by Britain's devaluation of the pound. But Washington says the dollar is safe.

British financial writers cast French President Charles de Gaulle as the villain whipping up speculators in hopes of ruining the dollar and making gold the No. 1 international currency.

Neither the U.S. Treasury nor financial experts elsewhere joined in the finger pointing, however. In Paris Albin Chalandon, an influential Gaullist deputy in the National Assembly, said the gold run was "not the fault of the French government" but could be traced simply to private buyers who mistrust the present world financial setup.

"Never Wanted Fall" Chalandon said. "The French government in no way wishes the fall of the dollar and never as 'the dove of North Vietnam' wanted the fall of the pound."

"It simply notes that the international monetary system comprises grave risks because of the American balance of payments deficit. France wants as a consequence that diversion of international monetary resources to avoid an international monetary crisis in which all countries, including France, would be the victims," he added.

France did help to spur the bullion flurry, however, by announcing it again would demand U.S. gold for its dollar earnings.

In Washington, officials generally agreed that the U.S. gold supply could outlast the speculation, but some feared it might not.

President Johnson and key American and international financial leaders have reaffirmed pledges to back the position of the American dollar "down to the last bar of gold."

Broad Movement

The promise came after a day of hyperactive gold buying in international markets in the wake of the devaluation of the British pound. The drive to buy gold was seen as part of a broad movement to change paper money for the solidity of metal.

The dollars-for-gold rush was described as a temporary flurry by Pierre-Paul Schmitter, managing director of the 107-

International Monetary Fund. He said in a Voice of America interview it will be halted by the determination of financial powers to support the pound and maintain the value of their own currencies.

White House and Treasury officials said they were fully confident that American and world gold reserves were sufficient to prevent the dollar from following the pound into devaluation.

Schwitzer said the United States "still has a very large gold reserve compared to its international obligations, and it is certainly quite adequate to meet any possible request for conversion."

He said he expected action by the fund's directors by Monday to establish a $14 billion credit by member nations to support the pound.

Presidential press secretary George Christian reaffirmed for newsmen in San Antonio, Tex., President Johnson's assurance of last Saturday that the United States is determined to maintain its guaranteed price of $35 an ounce to anyone wanting to buy gold.

"We believe the world supply of gold is sufficient in the present situation," Christian said, declaring that a devaluation of the U.S. dollar and a consequent disruption of world money markets will not occur.

Chairman Henry Reuss, D-Iowa, said he believed the world supply of gold is sufficient in the present situation.

Deaths, Damages Below Average

Hurricane Season Offers Little More Than Beulah

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Although the second most severe storm in history smashed into Texas this year, the National Hurricane Center in Miami reports that the 1967 storm season was light as storm seasons go. Despite the havoc when killer Hurricane Beulah smashed the Texas gulf coast and scawred 47 tornadoes, the 1967 damage figures were $100 million on the United States' average annual damage reports.

The death toll for 1967—49 dead, including 15 in the United States—was far less severe than the 1966 season when 76 persons were killed in the disastrous 1966 season when 1,094 were killed.

The damage toll for 1967, originally set at $1 billion, was reduced to $207,650,000 by the report released Friday. In 1966, destruction was up to $1.5 billion and the year before that at $432,650,000.

Only two hurricanes reached the mainland. The hurricane center said one, Hurricane Doria, was more beneficial than destructive, although she was blamed for three deaths off Ocean City, N.J.

Beneficial Rains "Damages for Doria can be considered minor," said Arnold Sugg, acting chief of the center. "A damage of $150,000 is attributed to the storm but this amount should not be part of the damage accounting since beneficial rains and sand deposits on the beaches more than made up for the losses."

Doria, the fourth of eight tropical storms in the season, veered into the Carolinas after crossing the southern Atlantic.

Hurricane Beulah claimed 31 lives as it ravaged the Caribbean before swinging across the tip of Mexico, into the Gulf of Mexico and blowing into Texas.

Five lives were claimed by the tornadoes she spawned in Texas and another 10 died before the storm blew itself out on land. Texas citrus interests were severely hurt and towns flooded as Beulah's 150-mile-an-hour winds raged.

The only storm more severe than Beulah was the 1935 hurricane which smashed the Florida Keys with winds exceeding 150 miles an hour.

Escape Added To Counts Against Youth

Intends to File Prejudice Writ Against Keller

A 17-year-old Little Chute youth who earlier this week was charged with taking part in the robbery of an Appleton service station last July, was charged Friday with escaping from the Outagamie County Jail Oct. 2.

Donald Castillon, who said he intended to file an affidavit of prejudice against Judge Gustave J. Keller, is being held in the county jail. The affidavit is expected to be formally filed Monday.

Another 17-year-old youth who escaped with Castillon Oct. 2, has been returned to the custody of military officials. The second youth was being held for Marines who said he was absent without leave. The pair allegedly sawed through bars in the windows of the juvenile detention cell and dropped to the ground using blankets and sheets tied together.

Castillon was waived from Juvenile Court jurisdiction. He is serving a sentence for driving after his license was revoked and attempting to elude Appleton police.

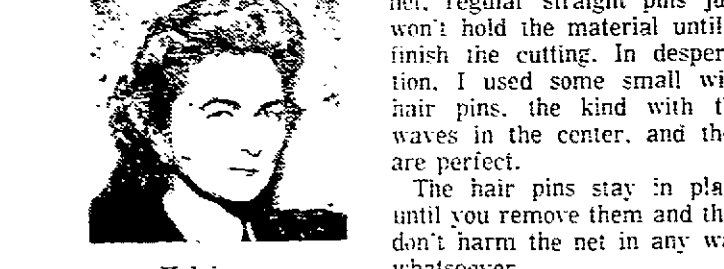

The Little Chute youth also is charged with aiding and abetting in the July 19 robbery of the St. Margaret Cemetery, Neenah, Wis. Appleton Police alleged that he was driving the car used in the robbery.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I liked the hint you printed awhile ago about sucking up mosquitoes with the hose of a tank vacuum cleaner.

I also use it for another purpose. When I'm vacuuming the floor. I look up and around. If I see a cobweb, or a spider web, I hold the end of the vacuum wand near it and...whoosh! it vanishes up the hose.

This way I don't have to wash, rub or pick the cobwebs off the broom, stick or whatever I used to wipe them down with.

P.C.

You are right! Just be careful if you suck up live bugs or insects.

One man wrote that he was a genius in the eyes of his wife when he sucked a horde of insects off the porch screen with the vacuum hose. He went on to say that the color of his wife's eyes changed later that night after he had placed the vacuum in the house and had forgotten to cover the opening of the hose or empty the vacuum bag.

You probably guessed it right. The insects were not killed when sucked up the hose, and during the night they found their way out of the hose and filled the house with their buzzing and crawling. And his wasn't a letter of laughter, either...

After all the napkins are used, use the box to hold anything you don't want shoving around in your dresser drawer.

A Reader

Dear Heloise:

An ideal toy for that pre-toddler in your house is a "book" made from bright, left-over pieces of material (patterns are best).

My small son fingers through the book I made for him by the hour. Just slitch them together on your machine.

When it gets dirty, I just toss it in the washing machine!

Allergy 'Symptoms' May Come Late in Life

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. particularly when there is any

Dear Dr. Molner: I think I can discharge from the ear, should understand something of the nature of an allergy that someone is born with, but is it possible to acquire an allergy? When I was younger, I had no trouble with animals. Now that I am in my 30's, I find that if I pick up a cat, my eyes get red and puffy. Do some allergies develop later in life? — D.W.

"Allergy" means an over-sensitivity to something, but let me explain one point that evidently confuses you.

An allergy does not manifest itself from the first contact with anything. There must be, first of all, a "sensitizing" contact. Then any further contact with that substance touches off an allergic reaction.

You may be extremely sensitive to some allergen (an allergen is anything that causes allergies) or you may be only mildly sensitive. Or not sensitive at all.

Let's say that you are basically mildly allergic to cats (or their fur, or whatever). You may, therefore, have had no trouble with cats for years.

But on some occasion you petted or cuddled a cat to the extent that the contact finally went past the amount which your system could tolerate. You then became sensitized. And from then on, only a small contact with cat fur was enough to touch off your allergic reaction.

I can give you one example from my own experience: A man loved strawberries, but never got more than a few to eat at a time. He went (this was some years ago, of course) to a "strawberry social" and gorged himself on his favorite delicacy.

This "sensitized" him, and ever afterward even a few strawberries made him break out in a rash.

Too bad, isn't it? But that is the way we are made.

Another example is penicillin sensitivity. Some folks have penicillin repeatedly without trouble, but one day they get a little more than they can tolerate, and they become sensitized. From then on, even a small amount is bothersome.

Yes, an allergy can break through later in life. You have to be born with an allergic tendency, but it may be years before you are subjected to enough contact to sensitize you.

Dear Dr. Molner: My problem is I have no appetite. I eat cereal in the morning and then nothing until dinner, and not much then. My blood count and blood pressure are good. What can I do? — Mrs. M.C.

I am guessing that you are fairly well along in years. If so, it may be that you no longer need as much food because you are not as active as you used to be.

If your weight remains reasonably stable, stop worrying about your appetite. Be glad you aren't like some folks who, as they slow down physically, do not slow down their food intake to match. Then they have a problem with overweight.

Dear Dr. Molner: I've been told to drink milk for my bones as I need calcium but I gain weight easily. Is it all right to drink skim milk, or do I have to drink regular milk to get full benefit of the calcium? — Mrs. A.S.

Skim milk is the perfect answer for you. It contains just as much calcium as regular milk — only the fat has been removed.

Note to Mrs. C.F.: Ali I can tell you is that chronic earache, especially in a child, and more

Commends Walter Renk Froehlich Praises 'Hard Line' On UW Discipline Following Riot

MADISON — Walter Renk of Sun Prairie, a University of Wisconsin regent, should be commended for his "hard line" approach to protest problems on the UW's main campus here, according to Harold Froehlich, Appleton, speaker of the assembly.

"Renk has demonstrated that he is ready and willing to take the action necessary to protect the university and maintain its integrity," Froehlich said in the most recent issue of the weekly "legislative capsule report" issued by his office.

Froehlich made his comments following a meeting of the UW's board where Renk first attempted to have a disruptive teaching assistant summarily fired by the administration. Renk also attempted to extend the firing to about 150 teaching assistants and faculty members who refused to teach during a student strike which failed following a peace riot on the campus Oct. 12.

The regents turned back both attempts by Renk.

"The indecision and lack of a definite policy in dealing with the disrupters, along with quick changes in policy, has had far reaching implications. This malady, previously confined to the administration, apparently now has spread to the board of regents and can be best defined as 'creeping ambivalence,'" wrote Froehlich.

The Renk resolution would have dropped Robert S. Cohen, a 24 year old philosophy graduate student from Levittown, Pa., from the UW's payroll. Cohen serves as a teacher of undergraduates in his department.

The teaching assistants and faculty members who refused to teach did so in reaction to a riot which broke out when police attempted to move demonstrators disrupting classes and blocking a UW building in an attempt to halt job interviews by the Dow Chemical Company. Dow makes napalm used in the Vietnam war.

Rules Sought

UW President, Fred Harrington, at that Nov. 17 regent session also asked that the board adopt stronger rules to prevent such disruptions in the future, which the regents refused to do. The motion was modified and returned to Harrington for further study.

The regents, wrote Froehlich, "have failed to grasp the importance of taking firm and decisive action to restore public confidence in the university."

The UW administration has vacillated in its policy toward the student demonstrators, Froehlich charged.

"This now you see it, now you don't" policy on the part of the UW administration cannot help but lend encouragement to those protesting and disrupting at the University," wrote the Speaker.

Froehlich also lashed out personally at Arthur DeBardeleben, a liberal regent from Park Falls, who has resisted attempts to deal strongly with such problems in the past.

"The omnipresent Arthur DeBardeleben — whose term seems never to expire — showed up to question some of the stronger actions recommended by President Harrington," Froehlich said.

DeBardeleben's nine year term expires in the spring. He is thought to have no chance of reappointment, a power which rests with the governor.

Nelson Sees Trade Threat In British Pound Devaluation

Senator Will Head Midwest Small Business Hearings

Special to The Post-Crescent
WASHINGTON, D.C. — Sen. Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin warned today that "the devaluation of the British pound poses a new threat to foreign markets which have been traditionally ours. American businessmen will have to be more aggressive in finding new business in order to stay even with their present levels of trade."

Nelson will chair a two-day hearing before the Senate Select Committee on Small Business at the Federal Building in Milwaukee Dec. 1 and 2.

Representatives of industry, trade associations, business organizations, transportation and shippers, universities and government will explore the opportunities for Midwest businessmen to expand their foreign trade when they appear before the committee.

Trade Surplus
Nelson said that Congress has become increasingly concerned with the nation's trade surplus. During 1959 the trade surplus stood at $6.7 billion. Last year it sank to a new low of $3.7 billion, Nelson said.

Nelson reported that Wisconsin has now climbed to 10th in value of manufactured exports, while Illinois is second and Michigan sixth.

"During 1966, in Wisconsin," the senator said, "over 68,000 individuals depended on foreign trade for jobs. Wisconsin's share of the nation's export business totalled almost $630 million."

State Exports
According to Nelson, the state's leading exports are machinery ($334 million), transportation equipment ($274 million) and food and dairy products ($39.7 million).

Nelson said that some of the greatest opportunities for trade expansion lie with small business.

Suit Filed Against Funeral Directors

Association Charged With Seeking to Stop Competition

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Justice Department charged Friday the National Funeral Directors Association and its affiliated local organizations have conspired to eliminate competition by not advertising the costs of funerals.

The charges were in an anti-trust suit filed in U.S. District Court in Milwaukee.

Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark asked the federal suit to order the alleged co-conspirators to eliminate all provisions which limit or restrict advertising of funeral costs.

"The freedom of the directors to advertise their own individual prices has been restrained," Clark said.

Will be Discussed
Howard Raether, executive secretary of the national group, which has headquarters in Milwaukee, said the government's action would be discussed by the association's executive committee.

A similar suit, brought three years ago, is pending before a state court. That suit contends that the 14,000-member national group and the Wisconsin Funeral Directors Association conspired to suppress competition in funeral services and supplies.

William G. Hardy, Jr., Louisville, Ky., the president of the national group, said he felt the U.S. government was being "manifestly unfair" in filing an anti-trust suit in federal court while the Wisconsin court case "presumably involving the same issues" is undecided.

He indicated that no further statement would be made until after the executive committee's meeting.

Break-ins at Four Avenue Businesses

Little Taken, but Much Damage Caused by Burglars

Four early morning burglaries at W. College Avenue business places resulted in considerable property damage, but the loss of only a small amount of money and merchandise.

The burglaries were discovered about 6 a.m. today at Burri's Sinclair Service, 3225 W. College Ave.; Nelson's Standard Service, 3649 W. College Ave.; Hudson Oil Co., 3641 W. College Ave.; and Matthew's Tire and Auto Center, 2930 W. College Ave.

Outagamie County sheriff's investigators said that a small amount of change is believed missing from a cash register at Matthew's, where entry was gained by breaking a front door glass. Authorities believe that a display fire might also have been taken, although a complete inventory has not yet been made. Unsuccessful attempts were made to enter several vending machines. Desks in both the office and the back shop were rifled.

Break Large Window
About 8:30 was believed taken from the Hudson station where entry was gained after breaking a large plate glass window. Several vending machines were damaged.

About $100 worth of S and H green stamps were stolen from Nelson's station where burglars entered after breaking a door glass. Also missing was a small amount of change from a cold drink machine which was pried open. An unused cash register was forced open and a cigarette vending machine was damaged. Some cigarettes may have been stolen, police said.

It was not immediately determined if anything was missing from Burri's station where entry was made by prying open a rear door. Investigators said there did not appear to be any money missing.

Youth Sentenced In Purse Theft

James F. Palmer, 18, 235 W. Wisconsin Ave., Kaukauna, was sentenced to three months in the Outagamie County Jail after he pleaded guilty of taking a purse containing, among other things, $5.58.

Palmer, who appeared in County Court Branch 2, was arrested by Kaukauna police who said he grabbed a purse belonging to Mrs. Michael Schussler, rural Kaukauna, as she walked on a Kaukauna street the afternoon of Nov. 20.

Involves Broken Windows Vandalism Traced to Two Appleton Youths

At least two young Appleton boys are believed to be responsible for some 15 vandalism complaints received by Appleton police Wednesday and Thursday.

Most of the complaints involved broken windows. The most serious damage was done at Cohen and Fielkow Inc., a warehouse, 311 N. Clark St., where 44 windows were smashed. The report was turned in to police this morning.

Four windows were broken at Outagamie Midland Equity Co., 320 N. Division St., and four more were broken at Fox City Sheet Metal, 1309 N. Summit St.

Broken Windows
Most of the other vandalism complaints came from private citizens, all of whom live on the northside. Police believe the two youths also were involved in shooting a BB hole through a large plate glass window at Riverside Lutheran Church, 10 W. Seymour St.

Vandalism was done to light fixtures at Black's Drive-In, 124 N. Mason St. Most of the vandalism complaints from citizens involved broken garage windows, and storm windows, although at the Edward H. Miller home, 1014 W. Brewster St., a hole was shot through a large thermo-pane window.

Police said the boys, ages 11 and 12 years old, have admitted doing some of the damage. The boys said they shot out some windows and put their feet and fists through others. The boys were not sure just how many places they vandalized. Police believe there may have been at least one other boy involved in the vandalism spree.

The two boys were released to their parents following questioning this morning. Investigation is continuing.

State Joins Menominees in Claims Fight

Compensation Asked For Loss of Hunting, Fishing Rights in '63

MADISON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Bronson C. La Follette said Friday the state has joined the Menominee Indian tribe of Wisconsin in its claim against the federal government for loss of hunting and fishing rights.

The tribe's action was filed in the U.S. Supreme Court asking compensation from the federal government.

La Follette said, he is supporting the Indians' plea to uphold a 1955 decision of the Wisconsin Supreme Court.

The state court ruled that exclusive hunting and fishing rights of the Menominees had been abrogated by the 1955 legislation which ended the Indians as members of a reservation.

The federal court of claims denied the tribe's petition for compensation for loss of their rights. The tribe has petitioned the U.S. Supreme Court to review the court of claims decision.

Youths 'Hijack' Pizzas Sent Out On False Order

Three youths "hijacked" a pizza delivery truck early Thursday morning and fled with two pizzas that had been taken to a Lawrence University fraternity house on a false order.

Kenneth Kemps, manager of Sammy's Pizza Palace, 211 N. Appleton St., told police that his driver, Ed Price, went to the fraternity house about 2:45 a.m. Thursday with two pizzas. Price parked the truck and walked to the fraternity house where he learned that no one there had placed an order.

When he returned to his truck, he found that someone had taken the keys from the ignition. While he was standing near the vehicle, three youths overpowered him and fled with the two pizzas.

Court Continues Student's Case

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller Thursday continued until Dec. 1 the case against Roderick L. Buchen, 19, 726 E. John St., who is charged by Appleton police with misrepresenting his age at a downtown tavern.

Buchen did not enter a plea this morning. Judge Keller, in continuing the case, set bond at $45. Buchen is a Lawrence University student. Police said the alleged incident occurred about 11:50 p.m. Nov. 10 at Jim's Place, 233 E. College Ave.

Fire Cripples Conner Lumber Firm at Laona

Blaze Battled for Hours, 6 Drying Kilns Totally Destroyed

LAONA, Wis. (AP) — An estimated 500,000 board feet of hardwood timber was wiped out Friday in a blaze that destroyed six drying kilns at Forest County's largest employer, the Conner Forest Industries, Inc.

An official of the firm said the loss of timber would almost certainly result in a work force reduction at the mill, which makes flooring, furniture moldings and trim and employs about 400 persons.

No dollar estimate of damage could be made immediately, but the fire was thought to be the worst at the mill since 1900.

From 8 Counties Fire fighters from eight communities flocked to Laona, about 50 miles northwest of Marinette, and battled the blaze for six hours before confining it to the kilns.

Authorities said the fire probably would not be completely extinguished for several days.

The blaze was discovered by a watchman shortly before the first shift was due to report Friday.

The cause of the fire was undetermined.

Deer Hunters Help Sending men and equipment to the scene were the fire departments of Eagle River, Rhineland, Crandon, Antigo, Wabeno, Starks and Stella. They were joined by Laona fire fighters and the plant fire brigade and by job corpsmen from nearby Blackwell.

Deer hunters and others attracted by the smoke also pitched in to fight the fire. No injuries were reported.

Pollution Hearings at Appleton and Oshkosh

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Hearings will be conducted in mid-December in Appleton and Oshkosh on pollution abatement plans for the Upper and Lower Fox River basins.

Conducting the public hearings will be the division of resource development of the state Department of Natural Resources, which will hold the hearings as a part of a series of six hearings throughout the state on pollution-source surveys conducted by the division.

The hearings have been tentatively set for the county courthouses in the two communities. No dates have yet been determined, pending the completion of printing of the final pollution survey reports for the two basins.

Other hearings are being held concerning pollution problems on the Pike-Des Plaines, Root

Area Phones Affected

Toll-Free Service Okayed by State

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — There will be toll-free telephone service between additional communities in Waupaca and Shawano counties, but the extension of such extended-area service for others as requested in a petition is not required in the public interest, the Wisconsin Public Service Commission ruled Friday.

The commission approved the provision of such service in both directions between Keshena and Shawano and between Marion and Clintonville.

The exchanges are operated by the Urban Telephone Company.

Petition Filed

A petition filed by Blaine A. Miller, Marion, and signed by 834 other people, originally asked for such two-way free service between Bear Creek, Bowler, Clintonville, Marion and Tigerton. The proceeding was later expanded to consider what, if any, extended-area service should be provided from Urban that taxpayers suits would be

Telephone's Shawano, Gresham, Neopit and Keshena exchanges assess levies against communities now for a multi-million dollar school it intends to construct sometime in the future.

Outlines Reasons

Johnson's three main reasons as outlined in the letter, were the need to expedite construction, the long-range impact of several types of financing programs on tax bills and the opportunity to take maximum advantage of available federal money.

Company Opposes

The Urban company opposed the proposal at a public hearing, contending that there was not an adequate demand for a change.

The commission said that it made its decision according to findings on the community of interest between the localities involved, and that the test of such community of interest is the relative use by customers.

Death Ruled Accidental At Clintonville

Woman Found Drowned in Bath At Rural Home

CLINTONVILLE — A rural Clintonville woman who was found drownd in the bathtub of her home Friday morning, was ruled to have drowned accidentally.

The body of Mrs. Barney Lyons, 47, route 2, was found by Waupaca County patrolman Ben Pipkorn and Clintonville Police Chief James Beggs who forced their way into the locked bathroom after they had received a call from the dead woman's husband.

The ruling of accidental drowning came after an autopsy was performed by Drs. Irving Auld, Clintonville, and Guy W. Homes, Wausau, both pathologists.

Lyons told Waupaca County Undersheriff Loran Frazier his wife had entered the bathroom about 6 p.m. Thursday. He said he repeatedly tried to enter the bathroom but was unable to do so. He called the Clintonville police Friday morning.

The tub was filled with water and Mrs. Lyons' head was under water when found, Frazier said.

Private services for Mrs. Lyons will be held at 3:30 p.m. Sunday at the Heuer and Severs Funeral Home. The Rev. Thaddeus Koszarek, pastor of St. Rose Catholic Church, will officiate. Burial will be in St. Rose Cemetery.

Survivors include the widow, three sisters, three sons, two daughters and three grandchildren.

"Trinity's Expo '67," a holiday fair with a foreign flair sponsored by the women of the Waupaca Trinity Lutheran Church, will be held Dec. 5 in the church. Items from foreign countries will be on sale at the interna-

Chairman Backs Levy For Building

A letter defending the position of the board of Vocational, Technical and Adult Educational District 12 (VTE-12) which has reiterated its position in favor of taxation rather than bonding for the new VTE-12 vocational school, went out to officials in the four-county area Wednesday.

Under the signature of C. G. Russell Johnson, Oshkosh, chairman of the VTE-12 board, the letter was addressed to all mayors or business managers, village presidents and town chairmen in the district.

It came on the heels of a Tuesday night meeting of about 100 officials from Outagamie, Calumet, Winnebago and Waupaca counties, and in effect, was an answer to announcements should be provided from Urban that taxpayers suits would be Telephone's Shawano, Gresham, Neopit and Keshena exchanges assess levies against communities now for a multi-million dollar school it intends to construct sometime in the future.

Outlines Reasons

Johnson's three main reasons as outlined in the letter, were the need to expedite construction, the long-range impact of several types of financing programs on tax bills and the opportunity to take maximum advantage of available federal money.

Johnson told officials in the letter that the board feels raising the money by tax levies has two major advantages:

"First," he said, "such a program will save money in the long run. We anticipate the cost to local taxpayers of construction of the needed facilities can be reduced by about 50 per cent by taking advantage of the federal subsidies."

"We can obtain this federal money if we can produce matching funds quickly. In addition, current high interest rates on municipal bonds would increase the total long-range cost . . . by 30 to 40 per cent over the long run," Johnson stated.

Chance of Referendums

A decision to issue bonds to finance construction might delay the project indefinitely because of the possible requirement to conduct one or several referendums, he contended.

"Before the board made its decision on financing, many of us went into our districts to discuss the issue with interested citizens. We obtained — and were guided in our decision — by many useful opinions. The overwhelming consensus was that we should 'pay as we go,'" Johnson explained.

"Although the board is authorized by state statute to levy taxes up to the rate of 2 mills, it is fortunate to be able to create a construction fund and finance this year's program by taxing at a rate of only 1.07 mills," Johnson wrote.

He also added that the board does not anticipate the need to exceed this current rate in the foreseeable future.

Had to Act

"As you know, the board has been criticized by some persons for moving too rapidly. This is understandable. Yet the board has had a sizeable job to do in the few months since its organization and has had to move quickly to take advantage of opportunities to get its program moving," the letter states.

"But it has no intention of operating without the understanding and support of the people in District 12, because it is those people we serve," Johnson explained in answer to the critics who felt that the board had not used enough public relations in levying the tax.

"Progress puts a premium on education and the demands for vocational and technical training have never been greater," he added.

Earlier this month, the board members had explained to municipal officials that the District 12 budget had to be set up in a matter of weeks since the board was organized in July and the budget had to be ready by the fall term.

"Future decisions by the board must be based on the needs of the people and I hope it can have the benefit of your thoughts and counsel in meeting the long-range interests of the young people of our area," Johnson concluded.

Gold Supplies Weathering 'Panic' Buying

Wis., of the House International Finance subcommittee predicted speculators who are exchanging dollars for gold would end up in a losing position because gold is becoming obsolete as the international support for currency.

When it no longer occupies that role, he said, its price will drop to "something much closer to $6 an ounce than to $35."

Reuss said he expects the Treasury to push for removal of the requirement that part of the nation's gold stock be frozen as a reserve for federal reserve notes once the present wave of speculation subsides. About $10 billion of the nation's $12.9 billion gold reserve is presently frozen as a backup.

—Jose Rolz-Bennett, a special U. N. representative, met with Greek leaders after trying to calm officials in Turkey.

Russia urged peace, but a commentator in the Soviet Communist Party newspaper Pravda accused "NATO agents" on Cyprus of "artificially whipping up animosity."

Cyprus, about 40 miles off the Turkish coast and 500 miles from the Greek mainland, has been a center of stress for the two nations for centuries. The island's 600,000 inhabitants are predominantly Greek Orthodox, but Turkey claims the territory as historically its own.

The fear of open fighting, calmed somewhat since a crisis in 1964 and the establishment of a U. N. peace keeping force, rose quickly after a clash Nov. 15 in which 25 Turkish-Cypriots were killed.

Turkey charged that Greece was augmenting the 12,000 troops it reportedly has on the island and threatened to land its own forces unless they were withdrawn.

Screamers at Pop Concerts Told 'Wait Until Song's Over'

Sheinwold Take the Finesse or Forget It

The average player spends a year learning how to take finesses and several more years taking every finesse in sight. Only the very good player can take a finesse or leave it alone.

In today's hand one finesse or another would lure the average player to defeat. He ruffs the second diamond, leads a heart to dummy's king and tries a heart finesse on the way back.

West wins with the queen of hearts and leads another diamond to make South ruff again.

South knocks out the ace of spades, and West returns a heart. South has already lost three tricks and must surely lose a club trick as well.

A more experienced South might try the club finesse instead of the heart finesse. This loses, and South still loses the 15 in which 25 Turkish-Cypriots trump trick. Down one either way.

Resist Temptation

A pure-hearted player makes the contract by resisting all the temptation. He ruffs the second diamond, knocks out the ace of spades, ruffs the diamond return, and draws trumps with the king and ace. No finesse, mind you.

Then South leads out his spades, discarding clubs from dummy. Eventually South can take the ace of clubs and ruff all the queen of clubs in dummy. When I say young I mean he is 18 and acts like 12. Do you think the mother is right or wrong? — Interested Leona

Dear Leona: The mother lost this ball game a long time ago. The boy's desire to get married at 18 is simply the final inning.

In my opinion the mother should not have agreed to sign for him. By so doing she removed the final obstacle. She should have said, "I refuse to consent to this foolish thing." If he runs off to another state anyway she will have done what she could to prevent what looks like a sure calamity.

DEAR ANN LANDERS, Your reply to the woman who complained about her husband's compulsion to turn off lights ("Save the juice, Marie") was interesting. You mentioned the cost for burning a 100-watt bulb was less than two cents for seven hours.

An electrical engineer told me that just switching on the light requires the same amount of energy required to burn it for approximately 100 minutes. So, please tell your readers that once the light has been switched on they might as well let it burn for an hour and a half if they really want to get their money's worth. — Ol' Scottie

The Case of Robert Cohen

Thousands of alumni of the University of Wisconsin who recall the rules of conduct and the disciplinary penalties for their violation during their own student days in Madison must be wholly mystified by the strange case of Robert Cohen, the bearded, contumacious and arrogant agitator now enrolled at Madison who has been a leading figure in virtually all of the student disturbances there during the last two years.

Mr. Cohen is a 24-year-old legal resident of Pennsylvania, who is enrolled in the university graduate school, and is employed on a part-time basis as a "teaching assistant" in the philosophy department. There is a good deal of misunderstanding of that title. He is not a member of the faculty, in the sense that he has tenure. The teaching assistant's major purpose, typically, is to pursue his own studies toward a graduate degree. An appointment as an assistant is a valuable subsidy, resulting in most cases in the waiver of nonresident tuition, plus a stipend, which generally amounts to about $300 a month for half time work and often less.

Following Cohen's arrest after his participations in the bloody riot on the Madison campus last month, the patient President Harrington of the university decided that it was time to act. He asked the regents of the university to take jurisdiction, and to expel the young man forthwith. The regents agreed to take up the matter after giving Cohen a hearing. What will astound most persons even

New Occupation for Bees

A hitherto small segment of Wisconsin's agricultural economy may be coming of age due to results of recent research and field experiments.

A northeastern Wisconsin food processing firm with considerable acreage in the state's central sands area near Wautoma conducted field tests this summer using bees to pollinate the cucumber crop.

Wisconsin ranks third in harvested cucumber acres.

Between field tests, under the guidance of a prominent state beekeeper and former state apitary inspector, and research, sponsored by the firm at the University of Wisconsin's experimental farm at Hancock, it was found bees could provide a valuable service — planned pollination. Research at the Hancock station showed planned pollination could substantially increase crop yields. Bees could be shifted from one field to another as the cucumber plants begin to blossom.

After a period of four to seven days the bees are collected in their hives or colonies and taken to another location.

The beekeepers, who have been at odds with canners and crop growers because unplanned use of pesticides and herbicides took heavy tolls on the bees collecting honey, have now found it valuable to better coordinate their timing with the bees.

The state honey producers convening in Appleton this fall recommended better

A Pass-Fail Grade System

What is the purpose of a college education? Students and educators continually are asking themselves this question as American higher education continues to expand at a breathtaking rate. Yale University has set up an academic experiment which reflects the attitude that college students should study for knowledge and not for grades.

Yale undergraduate professors have voted by a 10-to-1 margin to put into immediate effect a "pass-fail" grade system for a five-year trial period. Class standings have been abolished and four grading categories adopted — honors, high pass, pass and fail.

Proponents of the pass-fail system, which is somewhat similar to the "satisfactory-unsatisfactory" report setup used by some elementary schools, claim that their arrangement takes the emphasis off the

Looking Backward

CNWR Started on $500 Loan

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Post for Dec. 19, 1867.

The Wisconsin gives the following version of the commencement of the Northwestern Railroad

Great results sometimes flow from small investments. The Northwestern Railroad, which has grown to such large proportions, is an example of this.

The starting of this road may be laid to the door of a Milwaukee man, as many old settlers know. Many years ago, John B. Macy, well known to the settlers of Wisconsin, got a railroad project in his head. He borrowed $500 from Col. Hans Crocker of this city (Milwaukee) and went up to Fond du Lac and commenced digging.

A man could build a railroad with $500 in those times than he could now, but Mr. Macy had many difficulties to contend against. He built a sort of a road and it was used for hauling saw logs and lumber.

We doubt if the imaginative man had any idea of the importance his work was to assume. By this little affair the great Northwestern Company road was started.

For some time much fun was made of the road, one of the items being that a cow catcher had to be carried in the rear of the train to keep the cattle from running over it.

But for Col. Crocker's loan, which was paid about two years afterwards, the great Northwestern road might never have been in existence.

Mr. Macy, it will be recollected, was lost in the Phoenix, off Sheboygan a few years ago.

25 YEARS AGO
Saturday, Nov. 21, 1842.

Newcomers to Appleton were Dr. Louis Wise, his wife and two daughters, Enika and Catherine. Dr. Wise was teaching wood chemistry at the vaguely familiar with the university, is that it took a personal recommendation from Mr. Harrington to persuade the regents to act, and that even after they had it, they approved the idea by a divided vote of six to three.

We presume that the dissenting regents were following the lead of Chancellor Sewell, who insisted that Cohen's discipline is a matter of faculty jurisdiction. Aside from the fact that he is not a member of the faculty, by definition, we must wonder why during the many months of disorderly incidents in which Cohen had a part, or acted as a leader, the faculty has thus far not seen fit to act. We must confess more than wonderment — nothing less than shock — that a man who deliberately insulted the university's president in a public meeting by referring to him as a "moron" and a "hack" should be on the payroll a fortnight later, and presumably teaching some classes.

The university administration during recent times has shown an acute sense of the importance of public relations, and its formal public relations department is one of the most fertile of any public service that comes to mind.

But we can remember nothing in recent decades that has done more damage to the university's public image than its inability, or unwillingness, or reluctance, to deal with the obvious provocateur who must sometimes grin with self-satisfaction behind his ostentatious black beard as he reviews his recent career.

coordination with the crop growers on when and where pesticides and herbicides will be used during the day. Research has shown the bees are most active during the hottest time of day.

Some of the bees, such as those used for experiments at a federal laboratory in Madison, have been valued in excess of $1,000 each. A substantial number of them were killed this summer in a neighboring corn field being treated with a pesticide.

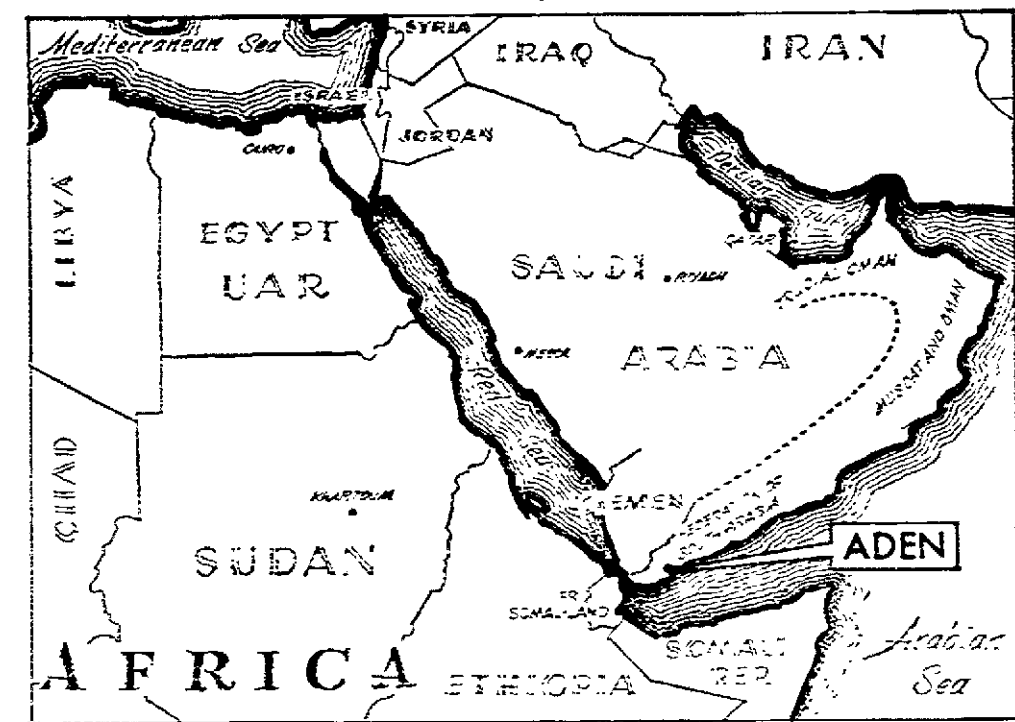

The beekeepers suddenly have a new market for a service they can provide. In addition they can develop a package of bees to sell for this specific purpose. Thus owning bees for the honey they can collect could become a sideline to the pollination business.

If a successful program can be developed for the cucumber then similar measures can be employed on other cash crops grown in central Wisconsin with resulting larger yields.

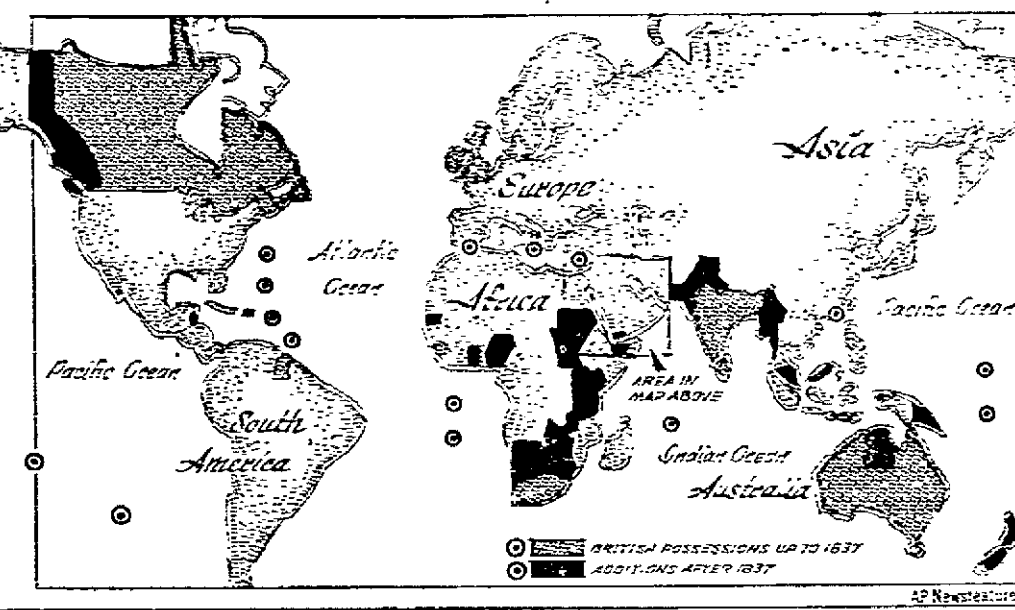

The implications are that perhaps dairymen troubled by problems related to agricultural chemicals also may find answers in better coordinating with other segments of the state's agricultural industry.

The example serves as another reminder that in the search to expand local and state economies there are untapped local resources waiting to be developed. In this case a liability for the beekeepers may become a valuable future asset.

END OF
BRITAIN'S ROLE IN ADEN

BRITISH EMPIRE AT
START OF WORLD WAR II

Britain will have withdrawn completely from Aden and South Arabia by Nov. 30, when the former protectorate becomes independent after 128 years of British occupation.

The British Empire before the second world war covered nearly 16 million square miles of the earth's surface.

Kraft Writes

Britain Must Soon Adjust Itself
To Role of Post-Imperial Power

BY NORMAN GOLDSTEIN
Associated Press Writer

The British Empire in years past was the land over which the sun never set. But the Commonwealth slowly has been deteriorating and at the end of November, the Empire will lose yet another piece of its once prodigious holdings.

The British are withdrawing entirely from Aden and South Arabia, which become independent on Nov. 30.

British Foreign Minister George Brown, in telling the House of Commons of the government's decision, said the action marked "the end of the imperial era of our history."

At one time just before

World War II, the British Commonwealth covered nearly 16 million square miles of the earth's surface, from Canada's British Columbia to New Zealand in the Pacific. This included the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland; the self-governing dominions or realms, such as Canada; the republics of India and Pakistan; the state of Ghana (formerly the Gold Coast); the federation of Malaya, and colonies, protected states, protectorates and trust territories.

The Federation of South Arabia, including Aden, was a British protectorate.

Aden and 19 states, sultanates and sheikdoms of the officially - titled British Protectorate of South Arabia, occupy the western half of the southern coast of Arabia, facing the Gulf of Aden and the Arabian Sea. Aden itself, a port city, covers 75 square miles and had a 1964 population of about 220,000 persons. The South Arabia federation is 112,000 square miles big and is populated by about one million people.

Aside from the port city, a free port with an excellent harbor which serves as a refueling station on the Atlantic-Indian Ocean route, the area is mostly desert and mountains.

It was captured by the British East India Co. in 1839, after an Indian ship had been plundered off the coast, and it was then annexed to British India. The Federation of South Arabia was formed by the protectorate states in 1959, and a treaty of protection was signed with Britain.

Aden was administered by a British High Commissioner heading a Council of Ministers.

Nationalistic tribesmen organized the National Liberation Front — NLF — and conducted sporadic warfare against the British. Another rebel group, the Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen, with outside support, helped conduct a terrorist campaign against the British between 1963 and 1966. The NLF has since managed to suppress the rival group, most of whose leaders have fled to Cairo and Beirut, with many of its military supporters dead.

The NLF now dominates nationalists in Aden and South Arabia and it is with this group that Britain negotiated over the future of Aden.

The loss of Aden and South Arabia leaves the British Commonwealth with few real ties among the Asiatic states. Several British-protected states on the Persian Gulf have treaties giving Britain responsibility for their foreign relations. Brunei, about the size of the state of Delaware, is a protected sultanate on the island of Borneo. The major — and most hotly contested — possession in Asia is the crown colony of Hong Kong, at the mouth of the Canton River in China.

Oboe Praised by Critic
Actually Wasn't There

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Out of curiosity I would like to know what credentials a "critic" must have to be represented in your paper. I am referring to an article in Friday night's edition by David F. Wagner, alias "Jingo." It was most enlightening and disappointing. As I am the performance pianist you may think me biased but I was imported from the outside world of teaching junior high music in Menasha. I do agree with Mr. Wagner on a number of items but this letter is concerned with setting the public straight on two things. You had best sign up for a course on "Instruments of the Orchestra" as your "brighter moments" from the invisible oboe player did not exist and the "sour" violins, one clarinet, and the piano dubbed his notes to make up for his absence.

AND: What is the definition of a "professional?" Webster states: "engaged in a specific occupation for pay" — Well, our pay has been over one-hundred people at the dress rehearsal and more than a full house three nights running with many turned away Saturday evening. They weren't upset by trivial things such as the cast mingling with the audience during intermission. We are quite aware that we are not professionals and are trying to be respectable amateurs. In the cramped backstage surroundings for such a large cast with many young people involved and drinking fountains located in the center of the building along with larger rest-room areas, friends and family at hand, etc. intermission was a time to mix and mingle.

Hoping to hear from you again when the Natives Are Restless at another Fox Valley University Center production.

New Judicial Code
Will be Judged
By Its Application

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The prudent man does not undertake lightly discussion of the State Supreme Court. Yet many persons who will peruse the code of judicial ethics promulgated by the judges of the Wisconsin uary, was a central figure in the Milwaukee Eagles Club controversy precisely because he refused to bend under pressure from those who protested the Eagles' exclusion of Negroes?

Wyngaard

court and its division into sections called "standards" and "rules" are likely to wonder about their meaning, on the whole, and their applicability in particular situations

For the most part, the document written by the court after long advisory work by a distinguished committee of trial court judges and private practitioners, puts into writing what most informed citizens had assumed a judge should be. It defines his duties and conduct in terms that would be offered by any reasonably educated private citizen asked to put into words his notions about the duties and the performance of the men appointed or elected to the judiciary.

SPECULATE ABOUT MOTIVATION

The court says that is has issued the code under its inherent powers. Presumably those inherent powers resided in it since its creation more than a century ago. Thus it may be speculated that the motivation for the publication today relates to some controversies about judicial conduct lately, as in the demands for the resignation of several Milwaukee trial court judges from a fraternal lodge which has a racial exclusion clause in its charter.

One of the "standards" agreed upon declares that a judge should "avoid membership in, or association with, an organization whose objectives, policies or activities are incompatible with the fair and even-handed administration of justice."

That has been interpreted widely to suggest that a judge should not be a member of an organization that discriminates on the basis of race. Is it fair to ask whether the court remembered that the most recent addition to its roster, who will take office in Jan-

DIFFICULT TO INTERPRET

Some of the "standards" the court has set out will be difficult to interpret, or at the least, will be understood variously according to the subjective attitudes of the persons involved. The judge, the standards relate, "should not seek publicity" on pending cases. Yet in the nature of things, perhaps half of the trial courts of the state in their working relations with newspapermen inform them of cases, if only in many cases to explain them.

The most widely noted of the "rules" issued by the court proposes to prohibit the judge from making an investment in enterprises likely to be involved in litigation, or to hold office in any financial institution or any other business enterprise or venture which is affected with the public interest. Perhaps lawyers and judges can agree on what that means; but it will confound the laity.

The court prohibits gifts to judges from persons with whom they are likely to deal officially, but it excluded "reasonable" financial contributions for campaign purposes. What is "reasonable"? Will there be one measure for tough elections, and another for routine elections, one for tiny Forest County, and another for metropolitan districts?

WHAT ABOUT SANCTIONS?

The court said it is prepared to impose sanctions upon any magistrate who violates any of the rules of the new code. It adds that persistent failure to comply with the "standards" will also be construed as a rule violation. The sanctions presumably would be direct penalties such as the revocation of a license to practice law, which would be tantamount to the removal of a judge in view of the statutory requirement that only lawyers can become judges.

It recalls the celebrated case two decades ago when the late Joseph R. McCarthy, then a judge, ran for U.S. senator, and was challenged about the ethics of the case. The court then held that the U.S. Constitution sets out the qualifications of members of the Congress. Under the new code, evidently, the court would have rescinded his license as a lawyer, a penalty sufficiently severe that it might have dissuaded.

Nurse Alarmed Over
Drug Poison Deaths

Editor, Post-Crescent:

As a matter of public concern, I feel I must write this letter.

I work part-time as a registered nurse at St. Elizabeth Hospital. A good deal of my time is spent working in the emergency room.

It is appalling to note that state-wide and country-wide the number of child deaths due to drug poisoning is rapidly on the increase. And also the number of small children with severe burns on large areas of the body is increasing.

We in the emergency room are very familiar with the rapid action that must be taken if someone is brought to the emergency room after taking too many aspirins, tranquilizers, sleeping pills or other drugs. No time must be lost in relieving the stomach of these killers and deformers. Within 15 to 20 minutes they go into solution in the stomach. Within 30 minutes they are into the blood stream. And within one hour there is little point in attempting to remove them from the stomach. If taken after a full meal there is a little more time before the stomach is empty — about two to three hours.

In the case of burns little can be done immediately except to flush cool water on the area and stop the smoldering flesh. But these are measures to be taken after the damage is done.

What should concern us is what can be done before this happens. Following are some suggestions I would like to make. Perhaps you can add to them:

1. Pharmaceutical companies could dispense harmful drugs in smaller quantities, somewhere below a lethal dose.

2. Doctors could order small amounts of drugs at a time with permission to refill more frequently.

3. Teachers could include a resume of the dangers of taking pills without doctor's orders and the proper placement of medications (in a locked cabinet) in their science, health and safety classes.

4. Newspapers could start a campaign to alert parents to the dangers of leaving harmful medications around. And also the importance of keeping children from medicine cabinets and hot steamers and stoves.

5. Nurses could always alert patients going home on medications to place them in a very safe place.

I understand that some of the above measures are being taken. I can't help but be impatient for faster action.

Life is our most precious possession. We should be careful to preserve it in health and well being.

Bryn Mawr's Last College Bowl Effort

BY TV SCOUT
4:30-5 (Channel 5) — College Bowl is an all-girl competition between Bryn Mawr, trying for a fifth straight win, and challengers from Barnard College.

6:30-7:30 (Channels 2-7) — The Jackie Gleason Show is almost all-male, saved by those lovely Glea Girls and the June Taylor Dancers. Otherwise we have to content ourselves with the likes of Bing Crosby, Alan King and Liberace, plus the Great One. (C)

6:30-7:30 (Channel 5) — It seems the producers of Maya like other well-premised series concentrate too much on trite plots instead of using the valuable properties, such as the many mysteries of India. This one is about a high class used car salesman who sells a decrepit bus to a small town mayor. Did they have to go to India for that? (C)

7:30-8 (Channel 5) — There are some pleasurable camping sequences in Get Smart, at least as pleasurable as KAOS will permit. Max and 99 have set out on their nature-loving tour to hunt down a secret site created by a witty wonder of the evil organization. (C)

7:30-8 (Channels 2-7) — Uncle Charley is old-fashioned and often dull but he gets the last laugh on the younger set on My Three Sons. Chip and some friends have decided to fill out applications for a computerized date service which Charlie (William Demarest) thinks is a "first class fruit cake" of an idea. Disregarding his old-fashioned ways, Chip goes ahead and winds up with a 6-foot tall date. (C)

8-8:30 (Channels 2-7) — If you were a Russian pilot on Hogan's Heroes, would you be surprised to be shot down over enemy territory, rescued by guerrillas who then trusted you up like a kidnapped cat and delivered you past the hands of the Germans at a POW camp where you were again rescued, this time by Americans who intended shipping you to England? (C)

8-10 (Channel 5) — "The Thrill of It All" on Saturday Night of the Movies is a typical Doris Day scamper, this time with James Garner, and an added piece of icing. It is very funny as well as quite splashy. The plot centers on an extremely thrifty housewife who one day finds herself signed up as the official $80,000 a year spokeswoman for a soap company's TV commercials. (C)

8:30-9 (Channel 2-7) — Petticoat Junction is too predictable even for this well-worn series. Would it come as a surprise that the newweds are going to have a spat? (C)

'Tis False That TV Audiences be Fickle

Viewers Faithful to Skelton, Sullivan
12 Years Now, Both Still in Top 20

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — That was "This is Your Life." "Your fickle public that picks up a Hit Parade." "December show, gives it a ratings whirl." "Fireside Theater," as then, bored, drops it, is not real-ly as faithful as it is reputed to be. The "Philco TV Playhouse," now one of the legendary series which projects the vital statis-tics by which television pro-grams live and die, recently came up with a list of 35 pro-grams that between 1951 and 1965 consistently stayed in its "top 20" popularity list for at least four seasons.

An amazing number of them for one, seems to be developing—about one fourth of the list—the kind of hard-core audience are still on top. The all-time necessary for high ratings—champs, each with 12 years to even with tough feature movie their credits, are Ed Sullivan competition. "Bewitched," re- and Red Skelton. Sullivan first mains popular year after year, made the top 20 in 1951, and so do "Gomer Pyle" and Skelton, the following year. "Lucille Ball, first with "I Love how often their network switch, "Show" has 10 years on top, ule.

Jackie Gleason and "Gun-smoke" have seven; Andy Grif-fith and "Bonanza," six, and "Dragnet," five.

Some Long Runs End
This suggests strongly that once members of the television audience finds someone and something they really like, they stick with it indefinitely.

But not always. "You Bet Your Life," the Groucho Marx comedy - quiz program, had eight years in the top 20—then slid into oblivion. Arthur God-frey's "Talent Scouts" was a hit for six seasons and "Arthur Godfrey and His Friends" for four Attempts to revive the former have not amounted to much, and the other show died quietly years ago.

The 15-year reprise of hits re-called some shows that have

Karate Hard on Ceiling of Cafe

CHICAGO (AP) — A political organization and restaurant have won their battle to tone down the activities of a neigh-boring karate school.

Judge John J. Lupe of Circuit Court issued a temporary res-training order recently against the Korean Karate Institute.

The order banned the insti-tute's instructors and patrons from jumping, marching, pounding, stomping or kicking if such acts disturb persons below its second-floor quarters.

Operators of the Savat Nova Restaurant and the 49th Ward Democratic Organization had complained that the karate tac-tics caused plaster to fall and chandeliers to shake.

The judge suggested that floor mats might reduce sounds.

Colonels Gain New Coach but Still Lose Game

Other ABA Action Sees New Jersey, Pittsburgh Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Kentucky Colonels of the American Basketball Association got a new coach this week. The change made no difference in the club's losing way, at least in the first game under 40-year-old Gene Rhodes. Rhodes, former assistant coach at Western Kentucky who replaced Johnny Givens after the Colonels had lost 12 of their first 17 games, got a rude initiation by the New Orleans Buccaneers at Louisville Friday night. The Buccaneers, Western Division leaders, hit a sizzling 51 per cent from the field and chalked up an easy 126-99 victory. Doug Moe, with 39 points; Austin Robbins, with 26, and Jack Moreland, with 25, led the winners. Louie Dampier topped Kentucky with 24.

NJ Over Dallas
New Jersey made it three in a row by whipping Dallas 102-93. Pittsburgh routed Houston 124-84 and Oakland downed Denver 113-90 in the other scheduled ABA games.

Bob Verga, former Duke star, scored 33 points for Dallas in his first appearance as a pro in his home state, but the Chaparrals fell behind early against the Americans at Teaneck, N.J., and never caught up. Tony Jackson led New Jersey with 20 points.

Pittsburgh piled up a 34-point first quarter lead at 43-9 for an easy home court triumph over Houston. The Pipers had five players in double figures, led by Chico Vaughn's 18 points. Jerry Pettway was high for the Mavericks with 15.

Oakland Tops Denver
The Oakland Oaks, down by six points, piled up a 35-17 margin in the second quarter for their road triumph over Denver. Mel Peterson led the Oaks with 23 points. Willie Murrell topped the Rockets with 21.

Philadelphia whipped Chicago 122-101. Cincinnati trounced Seattle 153-133. Detroit downed San Diego 130-122 and San Francisco went overtime to beat Los Angeles 122-121 in the National Basketball Association.

Canada Tops Sweden After First Night Loss

CAEVLE, Sweden (AP) — The Eastern division of Canada's national hockey team, blasted by the press for a poor showing in Stockholm two days ago, reacted Friday night by beating Sweden 2-1.

The young team, with players mainly from Ottawa, was beaten 6-2 by Sweden in the opening game of its European tour.

Notre Dame Gets By Miami, 24-22

2-Point Conversion Pass in Last 3 Minutes Batted Down

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Breaking in the top ten. You've got to go up a two-point Miami conversion pass with three minutes to go. Notre Dame squeezed by the Hurricanes 24-22 Friday night in a game that left the biggest football crowd in Florida history in a state of nervous exhaustion.

"It was a helluva ballgame," said Notre Dame coach Ara Parseghian after Bob Olson broke up Bill Miller's pass and kept the Irish among the nation's top ten football teams.

Miami hit Notre Dame with a 14-point barrage in the second period, dropped behind 24-16 in the fourth, then fell just short in a last ditch drive for a tie.

If Miller's conversion pass after the last Miami touchdown had connected, the teams would have deadlocked for the second time in a row.

Last Meeting
They battled to a scoreless standoff in their last meeting in 1955.

At the half, with Notre Dame trailing by six points, Parseghian said he told the team: "This is the fourth year we have been

Despite Surgery, LA's Bass Slated Against Falcons

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Los Angeles Rams fullback Dick Bass underwent surgery today at Hollywood Presbyterian Hospital for a crushed cheekbone — the second this year.

Bass, 30, suffered the injury Thursday in Detroit where the Rams trounced the Lions 31-7.

"It will definitely not keep him out of the Dec. 3 game with the Atlanta Falcons," said Jack Teele, Rams publicity director.

Bass suffered the same type of injury last January in the pro bowl game, Teele said.

Grabbing the Rebound was a serious business for Fox Valley Lutheran's Beck Goldbeck (35) in the first half of Friday's non-conference game against Menasha St. Mary. The Foxes' Kurt Troge is at the left while Zephyr players in the free throw lane are Mark Pozolinski (42) and Dave Lotzer (24). The Foxes failed to score a field goal in the first period enroute to a 62-37 setback.

Fitzgerald Scores 41 Points, Leads Xavier to Victory

Gets 17 Field Goals in 76-54 Win Over Milwaukee Notre Dame

MILWAUKEE — With senior Pat Fitzgerald pumping in 41 points, the Xavier High School basketball team notched a 76-54 non-conference victory over Milwaukee Notre Dame here Friday night.

The game was the first of a pair this weekend in Milwaukee. Tonight the Hawks will go after their fourth straight win of the season when they tangle with Francis Jordan, a team with a 1-0 record to date.

Fitzgerald was the sparkplug of the attack as he bagged 17 field goals and hit on seven free throws.

The Hawks, in staying undefeated, rolled up a 17-10 first quarter lead and were never headed. By halftime the victors had a 32-24 advantage.

Hit 27 Points
Xavier put the game away in the third period by exploding for 27 points. Oddly enough, the third quarter also saw Notre Dame come through with 20 points, its best stanza of the game.

Xavier hit at a good 39 per cent from the floor in the first half and then did even better in the last two periods by bagging 15 of 30 field goals for an even 50 per cent. The Hawks continued to widen the gap in the final quarter by dropping in 17 markers to only 10 for the losers.

Fitzgerald, who hit 13 points in the first half, was followed in scoring by Tom Thomson with 13 points, seven coming on free throws.

Xavier had 22 of 30 free throws, a considerably better percentage than Notre Dame which hit only 10 of 24.

Punt Return
David Olivo passed nine yards to Doug McGee for the first touchdown after a 49-yard punt return by Jimmy Dye. On the next kickoff, Phil Tracy recovered Dan Harshman's fumble on the Notre Dame 12 and Olivo scored from the one.

Notre Dame struck 62 yards for a touchdown in four plays, with Terry Hamratty setting 49 yards on two passes and Ed Ziegler scoring from a yard line. Tracy booted a 37-yard field goal to move Miami into back stretch in qualifying for halftime with a 16-10 margin.

Lincoln Tops Milwaukee Bay View

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The opening of competition in the tough Milwaukee city conference highlighted a holiday-abbreviated high school basketball schedule Friday night.

Milwaukee Lincoln, the defending state champ and city title-winner the past two years, downed Milwaukee Bay View 93-64 and extended its conference winning streak to 27.

Three members of last season's title team were withheld from action because of disciplinary suspensions. Lincoln opened its season with a loss last week as the three starters sat on the bench.

Milwaukee North, favored to come nearest to ending Lincoln's brief city dynasty, surpassed the century mark in humbling Milwaukee Juneau 109-43 in the state's most lopsided contest.

St. Mary's Mike McClone (14) appears to be receiving a helping hand from Beck Goldbeck (35) of Fox Valley Lutheran as he attempts a shot in the second period of Friday's non-conference game at the Menasha High School gym. The Zephyrs avenged last year's double overtime loss by posting a 62-37 win.

Negro Youth Conference: Racial Discontent May Bring Olympic Boycott

LOS ANGELES (AP) — America's Negro athletes were divided in their reaction today to plans of one group, hoping to "illustrate racial discontent," to boycott the 1968 Olympic Games.

A spokesman for the amateur sports classic expressed dismay at such a possibility but said he thought the Negroes who refuse to compete will lose most.

Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, said the United States can find enough talented white athletes if necessary to represent it in the October games in Mexico City.

Bears Top NFL Team in Causing Foes' Turnovers

Chicago Has Taken Ball Away 40 Times, Ranks Second In Interception of Passes

Post-Crescent News Service
CHICAGO — "Handle with care."

This would be a prudent watchword for the Packers, whenever they acquire the football, in venerable Wrigley Field had ricocheted off intended receiver Boyd Dowler's helmet.

Extraordinary vigilance will be necessary because the larcenous Bruins, the National Football League's No. 2 defensive team, lead the league in causing turnovers.

They have extracted the ball from the opposition 40 times in 10 games on interceptions and fumbles, this total including 16 recoveries which also represent a league best.

Seven Interceptions
The Midday Monsters' 24 interceptions, seven of which came in last Sunday's 30-3 thumping of the St. Louis Cardinals, rank second only to the 25 thefts registered by the Los Angeles Rams, current runners up in the coastal division.

The Packers, of course, remember eight of those turnovers only too well. They came in the World Champions' second game of the season, in which the Bears picked off five Packer passes and recovered three fumbles.

One of those was a controversial interception by Richie Petit-bon. The ball appeared to bounce off the ground and into the Bear safety's hands, which drew more than a few raucous protests from the Packer faithful, but the officials ruled that it had ricocheted off intended receiver Boyd Dowler's helmet.

Squeeze Out Win
Happily, the Packers weathered that incredible collection of misfortunes to squeeze out a 13-10 decision on a last minute, 46-yard field goal by Don Chandler.

It is not likely, however, that our heroes will be able to afford such largess here tomorrow afternoon. The Bears, relatively impotent offensively in the early weeks of the season, have been amassing yardage and touchdowns with ominous regularity of late barging to three consecutive victories.

As a result, any turnover could spell the difference in Sunday's match, which the Packers devoutly hope will witness their clinching of the NFL's Central Division championship.

Wetoska Injured
Offensive tackle Bob Wetoska is the only Bear regular who is not a certain starter at this point. Wetoska reinjured a shoulder against the Cardinals last Sunday and presently is listed as "probable." If he is withheld, ex-Wisconsin star Bob Pickens will take over at right tackle.

Ronnie Bull, hale after an early season leg injury, has displaced Ralph Kurek at fullback... he will team with Gale Sayers to form the Bruins' starting backfield tandem.

Although the Bears lead the league in forcing turnovers, the Pack's brilliant Bob Jeter paces both teams in interceptions with six. Bennie McRae leads the Bear outfield with five.

Packer split end Boyd Dowler, having one of his biggest years, has more than doubled the reception total of the Chicagoans' leading receiver, Dowler has caught 39 passes for 537 yards and a 13.8 average. Dick Gordon leads the Bears with 18 receptions for 350 yards and a 19.5 average.

Technicality Puts Vikes 1 Man Short

MINNEAPOLIS-St. PAUL (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings will be a man short Sunday when they play at Pittsburgh in a National Football League game because they got themselves caught in a rule technicality mousetrap.

The Vikings activated guard Mill Sunde Thursday, two days after they put another guard, John Pentecost, on waivers.

Friday, the Vikings learned that Sunde is ineligible to play until Monday, Nov. 27, under the NFL's waiver rules.

Pentecost has departed and is unavailable to fill in for one more game, leaving the Vikings with just their two starting guards, Larry Bowie and Kim Vellone.

Sunde, a regular before he was hurt, was placed on injured waived status Oct. 28. He cleared waivers on Monday, Oct. 30.

The NFL rule says a player must remain on the waiver list a minimum of 28 days after he clears waivers. Thus, Sunde cannot play until 28 days after Oct. 30 — or next Monday.

UW Hockey Team Slams Superior For 11-3 Victory

Bob Poffenroth, Dave Smith and Tom Ohrdovich each knocked in two goals for the Badgers with Greg Nelson, Mike Howan, Bert Debate, Terry Lennartson and Bob Leevers each adding one.

Kevin Christiansen scored two for the losers and Jim Ballard scored the third.

The two teams meet again tonight.

Zephyrs Deal FVL 62-37 Setback in Non-Loop Contest

Foxes Fail to Get Field Goal In Cold First Quarter Shooting

By GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
MENASHA — While Fox Valley Lutheran was suffering through first half shooting problems, St. Mary High School constructed a comfortable lead enroute to a 62-37 victory in their non-conference encounter here Friday night.

The Zephyrs used the fast break to good advantage and rebounded well defensively, especially in the first half, rolling to their second straight victory and evening the two-year Fox Cities series at 1-1. The loss was the second in a row for the tall but inexperienced Foxes.

St. Mary carried an 8-2 lead at the close of a slow-moving first period, was in command, 26-17, at halftime, lengthened the margin to 41-25 at the conclusion of three segments and then, with reserves in action, hit eight of 10 field goal tries in outscoring the visitors, 21-12, in the last frame.

The Foxes couldn't dent the nets in the first stanza, missing all 12 field goals that they tried. They got on the scoreboard by making two of four free throws. Their entire first half shooting produced five baskets in 30 tosses.

Beck Goldbeck finally broke the ice 15 seconds deep into the second quarter when he put in a rebound goal to cut the Zephyrs' margin to 8-4.

Bobcats Face Canadian Soo

Cats Hope to Break Away From Slump Tonight

GREEN BAY — Licking wounds inflicted by seven defeats in eight games, the Green Bay Bobcats will be looking for some healing saive tonight when they step out of United States Hockey League action to host the Canadian Soo in an exhibition game at the Brown County Veterans Memorial Arena.

Faceoff time for the game is 8 p.m.

This will be the second exhibition of the season for the Bobcats, who opened their campaign by bowing to the United States Olympic team, 4-2. Since then, the Bobcats have managed only one victory in league play against six defeats.

Coach Pete Buchmann is somewhat bewildered over the record, though, insisting that his team is playing much better hockey than the reading indicates. Stocked with a group of new, young and exciting players, the team just hasn't jelled yet but is showing definite signs of becoming a cohesive unit at any moment.

Buchmann hopes that the exhibition will be the catalyst needed to bring all the loose ends together before the Bobcats return to USHL play at Marquette next Thursday.

opportunity that comes once in a lifetime."

In addition to announcing plans to boycott the Olympics, a spokesman said "50 or 60" Negro athletes voted with 150 other young men at the conference Thursday to refuse participation in any athletic event in which there are participants from South Africa or Rhodesia.

Harry Edwards, 24-year-old assistant professor of sociology at San Jose State College, said "the black man has to be given everything that's due him." The boycott, he said, will be extended to include events connected with the New York Athletic Club. A spokesman for the New York club, which annually sponsors an indoor track and field meet in Madison Square Garden, denied the statement by Edwards that it restricts membership to white Christians.

Two other public statements by Edwards, bearded sponsor of the boycott, were disputed by two of the athletes he said attended the meeting.

Vote Unanimous
The closed-door vote, which Edwards said was unanimous, actually was a vote of acclamation—"everything was done anonymously"—said Leo Alcinder, All-America basketball player at the University of California at Los Angeles.

His teammate, Mike Warren, said he didn't attend the meeting as Edwards had announced. But Warren declined to say any more.

"I haven't made up my mind," Alcinder said of a boycott.

Expressions of support for Edwards' plan came from Cassius Clay, former world heavyweight boxing champion who won an Olympic gold medal in 1960, and Lee Evans of San Jose State, a member of the U.S. team which broke the 800-meter relay record last year.

Evans said he wouldn't participate in the games if it meant "slamming the potential door to freedom in the face of black people."

Commented Charlie Greene, six-time NCAA sprint champion from Nebraska: "It comes down to a matter of you're an American or if you're not. I am American. and I'm going to run."

The U.S. Olympic teams won't be selected until next year.

Wilt Leads 76ers Past Chicago, 122-104

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Big Wilt Chamberlain, who would like to win the rebounding and assist titles in the National Basketball Association this year, still can score plenty of baskets in the clutch.

The 7-foot-1 Chamberlain, who holds the NBA single game scoring record of 100 points, threw in 34 to lead the champion Philadelphia 76ers over the Chicago Bulls 122-104 Friday night.

A record Chicago turnout of 10,103 saw Chamberlain click on seven of nine shots for 14 points in the final period to help keep the Bulls at bay after the 76ers had erased a 59-54 Chicago halftime lead. Wally Jones, with 24, and Chet Walker, with 21, were next high for the 76ers. Flynn Robinson topped the Bulls with 19.

Lost This Time
The Seattle SuperSonics, who had scored an astounding 133-106 upset over the Boston Celtics at Philadelphia Thursday, scored 133 points again at Cleveland against Cincinnati. They lost this time, however, as the Royals threw in 153 points to equal their club record for a single game.

Detroit, playing at home, beat San Diego 130-122 and San Francisco edged Los Angeles 122-121 in overtime at Oakland in the other scheduled NBA games.

Connie Dierking, with 27 game points, Oscar Robertson, with 26, and Happy Hairston, with 25, combined for 78 points to lead the Royals to their 153-133 victory over Seattle. Walt Hazzard said such an accomplishment was unheard of.

Dave DeBusschere threw in 35

The 49ers also are likely to see another old nemesis in the veteran receiver Ray Berry. Out for a month with a shoulder separation, Berry may replace rookie Ray Perkins, out for the remainder of the season with a knee injury.

If Berry doesn't make it, the Colts will call on Alex Hawkins, who has come on strong after being picked up from lowly Atlanta on waivers.

Boyd Back
Bobby Boyd, who has been out two weeks with a shoulder injury, is due back at defensive wing for Baltimore.

In addition to benching John Brodie to try out Spurrier, San Francisco plans to take a long look at several rookies and second-year men. Elmer Collett at guard replaces the injured John Thomas, while Bob Windsor will continue as a promising relief for tight end Monty Stickles, out with a broken arm.

Rookie runner Doug Cunningham, already a sensational kick-return man, and flankers Chip Myers and Dick Wither are sure to see action.

Gary Lewis is due to replace fullback Ken Willard, still running on one wheel with a foot injury. Rookie Mike Nutlay goes at linebacker, and second-year man Mel Phillips will replace Goos Gonsoulin at defensive back.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The cellar-dwellers of the National Hockey League's West Division will play a major role in determining who occupies the attic during the next eight days.

Three of the St. Louis Blues' next five games will be with the division's two top contenders, the Los Angeles Kings and the Philadelphia Flyers.

The Kings, with a 5-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Penguins, stretched their lead in the West to three points over the Flyers in the only NHL game Friday night.

Philadelphia has a chance to slim that margin tonight in St. Louis. The Flyers will head home after the game for a Sunday night confrontation with the front-running Kings.

After that it will be Los Angeles' 46 games' chance to tackle St. Louis next Wednesday and on Sunday.

The Kings' victory Friday night was their third straight and their second in two meetings with Pittsburgh this season. Both were by 5-3 scores.

The Kings and New York Rangers have tonight off, the Flyers will be in St. Louis. Montreal will host the Boston Bruins, co-leader Toronto will take on Detroit. Chicago will be in Minnesota and Pittsburgh journeys to Oakland.

Special Board Session Slated on Basler Lease

OSHKOSH — The Winnebago County board will meet for a special session Wednesday to discuss a ground lease for Warren Basler who hopes to construct a $120,000 hangar on county airport property.

Basler met with the county's Aviation Committee Monday and requested the meeting since he said he would lose about $10,000 if he waited until the board's regular December meeting.

Estimated cost of the board meeting is $400 and Basler said he would pay up to that amount.

In approving a lease for Basler Monday, the aviation committee set a new policy that an annual rent of 3 cents per square foot would be charged for airport land. A flat lease rate is now charged.

First reaction to the rate by Basler was that it was too steep and he counterproposed that he pay 2 cents for the first three years, 2½ cents for the next two years, and then 3 cents for the final duration of the 20 year lease.

Driver Is Found Asleep, Not Dead

LARSEN — It sounded like a bad personal injury accident, so the Neenah ambulance rushed to the scene on State 150 east of Larsen early this morning.

When the ambulance got there, the car was on the shoulder, some 400 feet down the road from where it had hit a mailbox.

Inside was a body. That's when the two ambulance attendants and three Winnebago County patrolmen found out that the body was actually the driver who was asleep.

They awoke Robert G. Hylberg, 21, 176 Rickers Bay Road, Neenah, who had gone to sleep in his car after a tire had blown. Damage to the car's rear fender and windshield was listed at more than $100.

School Budget Slicing Begun by Menasha Board

MENASHA — The Menasha Board of Education started the board turned to the expense whittling its proposed $2 million budget for 1968 this morning in response to the suggestion of Mayor Kenneth Holmes last week that $150,000 be trimmed from the total.

The first reduction in the estimated tax levy of $1.76 per million was made on the revenue side. By revising estimates of school district income, the board managed to eliminate $19,256 from the levy.

Higher rental to the District 12 Vocational Board accounted for $6,000 more revenue, bringing the total charged for classroom space to $15,000.

Another $10,000 was added for more revenue expected from interest rates on school district funds, since interest rates have shown a recent rise.

State aids revenue also was revised upwards by $3,256, based on the recent passage of the seven TV sets, $2,730 for nine higher aids formula by the Legislature. The new formula provides $1 more per student in the district.

After revising the revenues, the high school and $1,400 for improved lighting on the stage at the junior high school.

Among the items trimmed were $2,000 under instruction costs by reducing the number of new teachers at the high school from three to two, $800 for the teacher intern program, $687 for textbooks at the junior high school, $2,850 for library books and $790 for library periodicals, and some $2,400 in supplies and materials.

School Supt. M. J. Gegan said he had conferred with the principals of all schools in the district asking for items to strike to reduce delay. Some, he said, would have to be put back into further budgets.

Other major reductions in the school expenses were $3,850 for a snow removal tractor, $2,500 for heating, $1,000 from a $4,700 request for a parking lot at the Neenah Police Station.

All young men from ages 21-35 who are interested in individual leadership training through community projects and membership in the Jaycees are invited to attend.

Menasha Aldermen Whittle $1.66 From 1968 Tax Rate

Long Session Cuts $88,000 Off Spending

BY CLIFF MILLER

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — By laboriously chipping at the proposed 1968 city budget, item-by-item, aldermen managed Friday night to whittle away about $1.66 from the tax rate.

More than $88,000 in spending proposals fell away during a four-hour trimming session. But the tax rate still stands $8.05 higher than the $48.93 that was assessed for this year's budget.

Aldermen were scheduled to have another go-around this morning, including a session with school board officials.

Aldermen had progressed through the bulk of the spending requests for general city purposes when they quit Friday. But the bulky street construction program outlined by Public Works Director Joseph Kelsenberg lay ahead and some aldermen were unabashed by sharpening their knives in anticipation.

Street Program

Kelsenberg, with the approval of the street committee of the common council, had proposed street construction worth an estimated $376,000 initially, with property owners along the roadways assessed for $147,495 and tax revenues sustaining about $228,500.

The budget proposal currently being worked over includes the entire original request, although the street committee and other aldermen have agreed already to cutting the total package to $162,450.

Of that, taxes would finance $95,780 and special assessments $66,670. City Clerk Harry Kind has pointed out, however, that he has shown the property tax portion as financed initially through a bond issue. Thus the amount — and any portion pared away by the council — would have relatively little effect on the new tax rate.

Some aldermen have suggested reducing the total further and financing it entirely through the new tax levy. The debate appeared likely to be renewed this morning.

Taxpayers Group

Sumner Parker, representing the Neenah-Menasha Taxpayers Association, ran through several items he thought could be changed, but generally conceded that the aldermen had anticipated the association's suggestions.

During the Friday night meeting, aldermen eliminated some four dozen items. They ranged from a $751 item to $21,600 in salaries for 12 new firemen for three months.

The firemen are proposed by Chief Cornelius Rippl to staff the proposed fire substation on the north side. Aldermen decided to cut the budget appropriation for their pay to cover three months — from an original provision for an additional civil engineer and $5,760 in salary for an additional draftsman.

The police budget sustained six. The next largest cut, Chief Lester Clark's request for $15,764 for "cadets" to learn office procedures while waiting to reach the minimum age for hiring as regular police officers. The entire amount fell.

Neither chief was present. Another item removed from the budget was an additional police squad car, for $4,695 including equipment. Another $1,100 was eliminated for gasoline, and other smaller costs were cut as well.

From the public works department were removed Kelsenberg's requests for $7,560 to pay an additional civil engineer and $5,760 in salary for an additional draftsman.

Several park and recreation department changes were made on the basis of a comparison of previous budget provisions with lower year-end reports on actual spending.

The largest item deleted was $3,000 of a proposed $15,000 for a new Jefferson Park toilet-concession-storage building. Aldermen said they would permit constructing additional toilet facilities only, continuing a debate that has arisen at budget time for several years. This year's decision is only tentative, however, since the council was uncertain whether the toilets would be new or replace existing facilities. Aldermen opposed mere replacement.

Running Melts Surplus Tonnage

Noon Workouts at New Y Draw Businessmen

NEENAH — From the grimaces on their faces you wouldn't know that these re-pewed athletes have come a long way since they started noon workouts three months ago.

But the volume of the wheezes, the pounding of hearts and the gasping for air now is mild compared to what it was that first week.

Businessmen in Neenah and Menasha had little opportunity to stay in shape during the winter months before this year and resigned themselves to putting on a winter layer of extra pounds.

But now they have a spanking new YWCA Community Center and a daily exercise schedule that allows little room for excuses about surplus tonnage.

The response has been surprising. Every noon during the week, some 30 men hustle to the Y for a quick workout. The roster includes ministers, working men, a school superintendent, businessmen and doctors.

Facial Expressions On Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, they start out with a ten minute session of exercises designed to pull and stretch unused muscles. The mosaic of facial expressions is awesome.

Then the Y's lanky athletic director, Bob Bruett leads the men in laps around the gym floor. Nineteen laps equal a mile. Ten weeks ago the group started with two laps running and one lap walking. Each week another lap of running was added, and now the tally is up to ten laps running, one walking, ten more running, one walking and five more running.

Eventually, the men will jog 20 laps straight.

The men run in pairs to keep each other company, though the conversation tends to sag more with each lap.

There's also an incentive system. For each mile, the runner merits an "X" on the gym scoreboard and wins one chance in the raffles for a transistor radio and a Christmas goose.

Some runners have recorded more than 30 miles and will have 30 chances in the raffle.

A good part of the appeal of the program is the fun and relief of getting away from the office for a short break. As one industrialist puts it, "I get more fellowship here than I do at my service club."

After the running, some men play a few minutes of basketball, others swim, others drag themselves to the sauna.

Usually the lunch hour ends up on the dressing room scale, and it is a safe bet that several hundred pounds have melted off in the three months of noon workouts.

None of the noon hour athletes have volunteered for before and after pictures, but new notches have been cut in a good number of belts.

The general approach of the men is a little sardonic, especially since weekends often put back every pound lost during the week.

One runner hung a motto in the gym: "Seven Days of Exercise Make One Weak."

Ten Minutes of Exercise kicks off the noon exercise sessions at the new YWCA Community Center in Neenah-Menasha. The daily workouts draw some 30 businessmen every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, with volleyball taking over on Tuesdays and Thursdays. The program started slowly three months ago and is pulling in more men every week. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Take on Extra Jobs

'Moonlighting' Way of Life For Majority of Teachers

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — More than half the teachers in Wisconsin's public elementary and secondary schools hold outside jobs to supplement their incomes, a survey of the Wisconsin Education Association (WEA) has found.

Four out of five men teachers take part in such "moonlighting," according to the results of a sample survey taken by Charles U. Frailey, WEA director of research.

Frailey found that 84 per cent of male teachers earned additional income from after-hours work or summer employment, while only 28.6 per cent of the female teachers supplemented their income in that fashion.

Other, nonsalaried incomes, such as dividends, add to the incomes of 20.4 per cent of the men, and 16.4 per cent of the women. Counting both types of income, more than twice as many men as women reported extra incomes — 86.7 per cent of the men, 39.6 per cent of the women.

Random Sample

His work was conducted using a random sample of all teachers in Wisconsin, and a sample was selected to insure a 90 per cent level of confidence in the results, with a factor of error of 5 per cent.

Among the findings of his study is the fact that while teachers' salaries are increasing, they are only holding their

Death Ruled Accidental At Clintonville

Woman Found Drowned in Bath At Rural Home

CLINTONVILLE — A rural Clintonville woman who was found dead in the bathtub of her home Friday morning, was ruled to have drowned accidentally.

The body of Mrs. Barney Lyons, 47, route 2, was found by Waupaca County patrolman Ben Pipkorn and Clintonville Police Chief James Beggs who forced their way into the locked bathroom after they had received a call from the dead woman's husband.

The ruling of accidental drowning came after an autopsy was performed by Drs. Irving Auld, Clintonville, and Guy W. Homes, Wausau, both pathologists.

Lyons told Waupaca County Undersheriff Loran Frazier his wife had entered the bathroom about 6 p.m. Thursday. He said he repeatedly tried to enter the bathroom but was unable to do so. He called the Clintonville police Friday morning.

The tub was filled with water and Mrs. Lyons' head was under water when found, Frazier said.

Private services for Mrs. Lyons will be held at 3:30 p.m. Sunday at the Heuer and Sievers Funeral Home. The Rev. Thaddeus Koszarek, pastor of St. Rose Catholic Church, will officiate. Burial will be in St. Rose Cemetery.

Survivors include the widower, her parents, three sisters, one son, two daughters and three grandchildren.

Lynn Kellogg, Appleton songstress on her way up in the entertainment world, will appear on Channel 11's Mike Douglas Show at 5:30 p.m. Monday. Miss Kellogg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Kellogg, 1311 Lehmann Lane, will take a screen test next week in Hollywood and will make her debut on the night club circuit when she appears at New York City's Living Room Dec. 11 for a two-week engagement.

Snow, Rain May Change Fair Skies

The Fox Cities were blessed with clear, mild weather today like that of Friday. However, colder temperatures, rain or snow is threatened to enter the state by Sunday.

Readings as high as 50 degrees are predicted for the southeastern part of Wisconsin today as a sort of calm before the storm.

Appleton temperatures Friday ranged from a 24-hour high point of 44 degrees and an overnight low of 31 degrees.

Temperatures early today were generally mild except in the far northern areas where readings dropped rapidly in snow-covered regions when skies cleared for a short time. The 16 at Superior-Duluth compared with 15, the nation's lowest mark, at Ely, Nev.

Racine and Beloit had a low of 32, Green Bay and Burlington 30, Milwaukee and Eau Claire 29, Madison and Wausau 25, La she walked on a Kaukauna Crosse 24 and Lone Rock 21.

Over one third of the teachers also earned extra money during the school year — 66.2 per cent of the men and 16.1 per cent of the women.

Summer employment during 1965 included:

Recreation Work

Board to Convene at Roosevelt Junior High

The Appleton Board of Education will have its meeting at 7:15 p.m. Monday at Roosevelt Junior High School rather than the superintendent's office at Moravian School.

The change was made to give public an opportunity to see the condition of the school, which is included in the five-year building and repair plan.

Fire Cripples Connor Lumber Firm at Laona

LAONA, Wis. (AP) — An estimated 500,000 board feet of hardwood timber was wiped out Friday in a blaze that destroyed six drying kilns at Forest County's largest employer, the Connor Forest Industries, Inc.

An official of the firm said the loss of timber would almost certainly result in a work force reduction at the mill, which makes flooring, furniture moldings and trim and employs about 400 persons.

No dollar estimate of damage could be made immediately, but the fire was thought to be the worst at the mill since 1900.

From 8 Counties

Fire fighters from eight communities flocked to Laona, about 50 miles northwest of Marinette, and battled the blaze for six hours before confining it to the kilns.

Authorities said the fire probably would not be completely extinguished for several days.

The blaze was discovered by a watchman shortly before the first shift was due to report Friday.

The cause of the fire was undetermined.

Deer Hunters Help

Sending men and equipment to the scene were the fire department of Eagle River, Rhinelander, Crandon, Antigo, Waubesa, Starks and Stella. They were joined by Laona fire fighters and the plant fire brigade and by job corpsmen from nearby Blackwell.

Deer hunters and others attracted by the smoke also pitched in to fight the fire.

No injuries were reported.

Youth Sentenced In Purse Theft

James F. Palmer, 18, 235 W. Wisconsin Ave., Kaukauna, was sentenced to three months in the Outagamie County Jail after he pleaded guilty of taking a purse containing, among other things, $5.58.

Palmer, who appeared in County Court Branch 2, was arrested by Kaukauna police who said he grabbed a purse belonging to Mrs. Michael Schussler, rural Kaukauna, as Madison and Wausau 25, La she walked on a Kaukauna Crosse 24 and Lone Rock 21.

The charges were in an anti-trust suit filed in U.S. District Court in Milwaukee.

Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark asked the federal suit to order the alleged co-conspirators to eliminate all provisions which limit or restrict advertising of funeral costs.

"The freedom of the directors to advertise their own individual prices has been restrained," Clark said.

Howard Raether, executive secretary of the national group, which has headquarters in Milwaukee, said the government's action would be discussed by the association's executive committee.

A similar suit, brought three years ago, is pending before a state court. That suit contends that the 14,000-member national group and the Wisconsin Funeral Directors Association conspired to suppress competition in funeral services and supplies.

William G. Hardy, Louisville, Ky., the president of the national group, said he felt the U.S. government was being "manifestly unfair" in filing an anti-trust suit in federal court while the Wisconsin court case "presumably involving the same issues" is undecided.

He indicated that no further statement would be made until after the executive committee's meeting.

Nelson Sees Trade Threat In British Pound Devaluation

Senator Will Head Midwest Small Business Hearings

Special to The Post-Crescent

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Sen. Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin warned today that "the devaluation of the British pound poses a new threat to foreign markets which have been traditionally ours."

American businessmen will have to be more aggressive in finding new business in order to stay even with their present levels of trade.

Nelson will chair a two-day hearing before the Senate Select Committee on Small Business at the Federal Building in Milwaukee Dec. 1 and 2.

Representatives of industry, trade associations, business organizations, transportation and shippers, universities and government will explore the opportunities for Midwest businessmen to expand their foreign trade when they appear before the committee.

Trade Surplus

Nelson said that Congress has become increasingly concerned with the nation's trade surplus.

During 1967 the trade surplus stood at $6.7 billion. Last year it sank to a new low of $3.7 billion, Nelson said.

Nelson reported that Wisconsin has now climbed to 10th in value of manufactured exports, while Illinois is second and Michigan sixth.

"During 1966, in Wisconsin," the senator said, "over 60,000 individuals depended on foreign trade for jobs. Wisconsin's share of the nation's export business totalled almost $630 million."

State Exports

According to Nelson, the state's leading exports are ma-
